MICHAEL REIMER.AI

Localized Follow-Up Ad Copy Pack

AI INNER CIRCLE · WEEKLY INTELLIGENCE

1 Stop Losing Customers in Translation

Give multilingual customers clearer booking confirmations, reminders, and follow-ups built around how they communicate.

Request a communication audit.

2 Your Recurring Bookings Need One Clear System

Confirm the full series once, remind customers before each visit, and follow up after every appointment.

Map your appointment flow.

3 Make Every Appointment Easier to Understand

Replace unclear recurring booking messages with a structured customer communication sequence.

Review your current reminders.

4 Local Language Is More Than Translation

Audit your customer messages for dialect, cultural nuance, and service-specific terminology.

Start a local messaging review.

5 Test Voice AI Before Customers Hear It

Evaluate common questions, local language needs, and escalation scenarios before deploying a voice experience.

Book a voice readiness review.

6 Turn Your FAQs Into Better Customer Support

Organize approved answers and real service scenarios into a practical foundation for AI-assisted communication.

Build your scenario library.

7 Fewer Appointment Questions Start Here

Give customers clear series details, timely reminders, and a simple next step after each visit.

See the follow-up blueprint.

8 Give Your Team One Approved Answer Path

Bring policies, FAQs, and service procedures into a structured communication system your team can use.

Map your business knowledge.

9 Build a Follow-Up System That Speaks Clearly

Combine recurring appointment notifications with approved language for a more consistent customer experience.

Launch your first workflow.